Letter or Email Response:

I worry about the impact on the roads and increase in traffic during construction, the lorries and trucks that will need to access the area and cause disruption and increase pollution. I also worry that with an expansion of housing we will lose our identity as a "village", becoming more of a town. I also worry about the how the local shops in the village and the parking to them will cope - they are only suitable for an area of a smaller size, certainly not the large expansion that is proposed. Could the airfield be both an employment and residential site? With its own sets of shops? Thus taking the strain off of the limited ones we have. (Surely inconveniencing a small number of flyers is better than disrupting the rest of the village?) Charlie Murley
