Letter or Email Response:

i feel very strongly that our open spaces should not be built on, debden is already very over populated with 5 schools already along willingale road, this causes traffic chaos every morning and early evening. these schools are already over subscribed by hundreds of places. debden, as an estate has already been added to over the years far beyond the capacity it was meant for. i don't believe this short sighted piggy back over building to cut costs, works in the long term, with a real danger of flooding from over used drains, roads and pollution that cant cope and local facility's under great pressure. the council should look for outside investment to find a new site to build a new development where people want to live, not blight the lives of the people of debden and future generations who will end up in a concrete jungle with no open space.
